Raza report

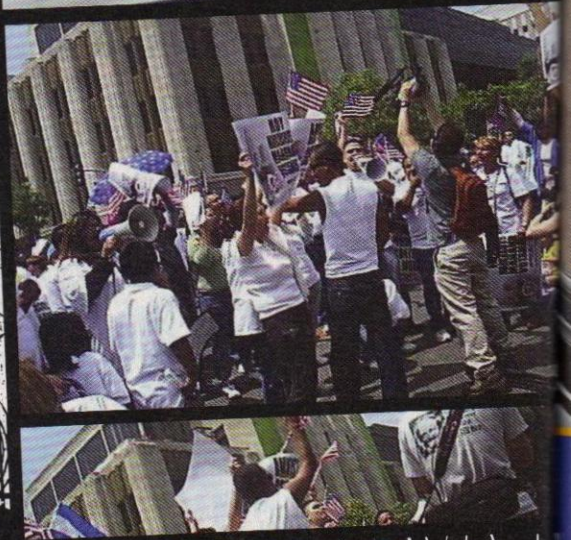

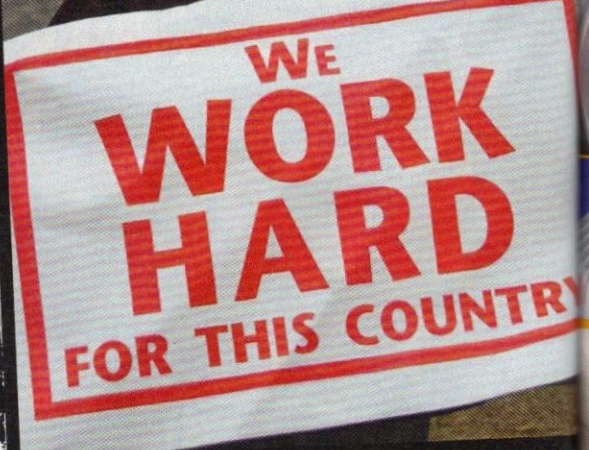

receive mixed messages about the diverse and rich make up and full contributions of all Hispanic Americans?

Will you celebrate the month? And if so, how? Perhaps we can all start by putting a human face to it. By volunteering in our communities and getting involved in the public discussions taking place throughout. Latinos are part of the fabric of this nation. Latinos contribute to the economy by starting and operating successful businesses that create jobs. Many Latinos volunteer in their communities, and hold important posts in corporate America, law enforcement, the military, academia, arts, and many other professions and occupations. They are great fathers, mothers, friends and neighbors. Latinos also pick the food on our tables, and raise our children, and fight for this country with pride, and fierceness, and loyalty like no other. That is something to celebrate year-round. As we seek and demand solutions to the many challenges our nation faces, perhaps this year's Hispanic Heritage Month celebrations could be themed around the current issues of importance to the quality of life of Hispanic Americans; themes that we know well: equality, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

As an American, a Latina—a Mexican-American, first generation, bilingual, bicultural and deeply rooted in this great nation; every year, every day, and every moment, in some way I celebrate my Hispanic Heritage because I see it in the faces of my children, my family and my own. It matters because as an immigrant nation—not doing so would be, well, un-American. ■

LOWRIDER New Products

MACS ULTRA PACK

Whether you tow a Lowrider or project car, it's critical that your vehicle is safe and secure when you tow it down the road. By combining the premium quality parts in a pre-engineered system, the Mac's Ultra Pack includes everything you need to tie your car or truck down safely and securely while protecting it from damage during transport. The Ultra Pack includes four 6- or 8-foot ratchet straps (or a combination of both), four axle straps, four strap wraps and a free duffel bag to stow the gear when not in use. All straps in this pack have more than twice the number of stitches than most competitors' straps. The Ultra Pack is rated with a 10,000-pound capacity. Overall, it is the fastest, easiest and most secure way to transport a vehicle down the open road. For more information visit: www.macstiedowns.com

LS7 FUEL RAIL KITS

With the birth of the LS7 engine, FASTTM engineers developed a revolutionary manifold that is capable of producing big gains for the power plant - the LSXRTM 102mm Intake Manifold. However, the new FASTTM LS7 manifold requires the use of one of two FASTTM custom fuel rail kits designed specifically for it - either an OEM-type or an upgraded billet aluminum kit. With high-strength, lightweight, red anodized aluminum construction, the FASTTM LSXRTM 102mm Intake Manifold Billet Aluminum Fuel Rail Kit delivers performance in addition to a show car quality appearance. The OEM-type fuel rail kit ships with all necessary components and will provide the proper function for use in factory vehicles, as it enables easy connection to existing fuel lines.
